HONGKONG, NOVEMBER 10TH, 1905.

MANY of our readers will be interested by the extract from the Evening Standard which we reproduce in another part of this paper, under the caption "Tropical Frenzy." seems to adopt an attitude of scepticism marking the southern edge of the bank abreast toward this "new disease"; no doubt plenty of dwellers in the Far East will smile in sympathy with him; but we are sure that there will be a not inconsiderable number of folk who will read the reference to. Professor Plenn's "discovery" and it." "Tropical Frenzy," we read, is "a nial officials suffer, and which has been tendered in extenuation of various acts of brutality committed by them. Dr. PLEHN did not say that it was a disease confined to German officials"-we should think not, indeed-"but as far as is known it has been should say it is the new diagnosis that has i been heard of from those Colonies only; the disease itself, if we admit its existence, being common wherever a tropical sun shines and their habit of profanity, opined that there must be something esoteric about their occupation, or in the air of the river familiar with the man who, as SHAKESPEARE says, is "rash and very sudden in choler;" and the irascibles themselves after an outburst sometimes recognise | already in this trade.

the weakness. It is usual to attribute it to local atmospheric conditions. "I had a fairly equable temperament at Home," he plends, "it must be this expletival climate." And so in Japan, China, India, and other hot places, we find the climate being made the scapegoat for this particular sin of man. But there has always been something unsatisfactory about that excuse. . . There are a few men who share the climate with us, and who do not choke with rage at the stupidity of the "boy." The angry men's wives have pointed this out, not always with pacificatory results. Our and their sympathy must now be extended to our Joseph SEDLEYS, since the publication of Doctor PLEHN's hypothesis. The ancient and ahandoned theory of the connection between choler and cholera returns in more modern and plausible shape. "Tropical Frenzy is, we are told, usually associated with malaria, and in its features has much in common with progressive paralysis. Persons afflicted with it are not fully responsible for their actions, and should be-treated considerately. Fortunately, at Hongkong we are not ultra-tropical, and our icascibility is kept within limits.

LONDON, 7th November. A banquet has been given in honour of Lord Lansdowne, in recognition of the conclusion of the Anglo-Japanese-treaty, at Lord Ashbourne presided. The Mikado was tonsted enlogistically. Lord Lansdowne said that in these days when nations were grouping themselves and arming to the teeth, no nation could venture to stand entirely alone. He eulogised the prowess of our allies, their patriotism, patience, selfrestraint and their straightforward di plomacy, and said that he had no better recollections of the Foreign Office than his was about to be made an ambassador. In continuation he said that we had gained an ally of whom we were proud, the alliance there were no unavowed motives, no secret clauses and nothing behind the published documents. The entente between Great strengthened the position of both. standings necessarily involved the estrangement of other powers; if any of the latter desired a similar understanding with us, we were willing, provided nothing was done hereafter to impair our friendship with Japan and France.

THE KING'S BIRTHDAY.

THE CELEBRATIONS.

Yesterday was the sixty-fourth anniversory of the birthday of His Majesty King Edward VII., and throughout the Empire the occasion was celebrated, Hongkong not being a whit behind other parts in its manifestation of The Duchess of Fife, the King's loyalty. The weather was all that could be desired, and most inviting to holiday makers. All Government offices, exchange banks, Excellency the Governor and his A.D.C.'s, schools and the mejority of mercantile houses were closed. The city displayed a profusion of bunting, while the majorily of vessels in port, both British and Foreign, dressed ship in honour of the occasion. The Royal Standard fluttered from the flagstaffs Government House and of Headquarters House, while the Union Jack was hoisted on the hospital ship Meance. The greater number of Hongkong residents were to be seen trekking to Happy Valley at an early hour in the morning where the troops were to be reviewed by H.E. the Governor. Ricshas were at a premium, while the tramcars, which followed each other in quick succession were literally packed. The Valley, with its natural beauties, presents a picturesque appearance at all times, but on such occasions as yesterday the scene presented could only be done full justice to by the brush of the skilful artist. The mist which more often than not obscures the scene to spectators on the summits of the surrounding hills was absent. Large groups of people or Bowen Road, and even on the higher levels, were discerned from the race course witnessing the evolutions of the troops. The course itself presented the animated appearance it wears on racedays. Flags duttered from the grand stand, from which a large number chose to watch events. The favoured few had chairs provided on the tracks, while the course was lined by a large crowd, even the top of the black rock being utilised by athletes. The troops as they were lined up in the ring displayed a solid front and with their bayonets glistening in the morning sun, presented an imp-sing spectacle An innovation at a local review was the ap pearance of mounted troops and mule batteries on parade. The H.K.V.C. troop of 25 members, which Viscount Hayashi was present and mounted on China ponies, proved a great attract ion to the onlookers, and the manner in which they acquitted themselves in their share of the manouv res was alike creditable to each individual member; and the skilled instructor. Mr. R. Hudson, an ex-unit of the 5th Dragoons and a South African campaigner. The restlessness of the China pony is well known, and the instructor of the corps realised that if the troop was to acquit itself with credit on parade, it would be necessary to train the ponies to stand fire Consequently at the drills at Causeway Bay, intercourse with Viscount Hayashi, who | they were trained to face salves of crackers, the result being evidenced at the review when ranks were kept during the crack of rifle and the boom of cumuon. A noticeable feature of the parade was the absence of Naval represents. was not a conspiracy against others, and tives, which was no doubt owing to the withdrawal of the China squadron: many officers in unform, however, were on the ground as spectators. The mules and horses from Kow-Britain and Franco had also greatly loon had been shipped to Hongkong on the previous day, and early yesterday morning the troops from the other side were landed here, so deplored the assumption that these under- that preliminaries were arranged and the various regiments were on the ground punctually.

Shortly before ten o'clock, the Governor arrived, when the Royal Standard was unfurled, the massed bands played a verse of the National Anthem, and the troops came to the salute. Recently one of the steamers of the H.K.V.C. (who was honorary nide-de-camp) was mounted on a China and wore a darke grey frock suit. He rode on to the ground; and minutely inspected the troops. This was followed by the feu de joie. The 2.95 guns of the H.K.S.B. R.G.A., on the right of the line, opened fire, each gun in succession telling vigorously as it belched forth its salute of many happy returns: the surrounding hills taking up the refruin, and echoing and re-echoing it far and wide. Afterprecise information, but they are believed to be wards the troops discharged their rifles to the same tune, and then, the division having fixed bayonets, gave the Royal salute. Subsequently the massed bands struck up the National Anthem, and the troops, removing their head dresses, gave three ringing cheers for His Majesty. Immediately afterwards, the chief more systematic opening up than has hitherto spectacular event of the parade occurred. The Governor accompanied by his aide-de-camps, having taken up his position at the saluting base, 'neath the Royal Standard, was afterwards joined by the General Officer command ing, where they witnessed the march past. To the stirring strains of the regimental bands, the various battalions marched past in quarter column in the following order :-

RESUMPTION OF INSANITARY AREAS.

REPORT ON SCHEMES UNDERTAKEN TROM 1894 TO 1905.

Taipingshau Resumption.—The serious outbreak of plague in 1894 gave rise to the first resumption scheme undertaken for the purpose of improving the sanitary condition of the City of Victoria. During the course of the epidemic, the inhabitants of a large area in the Tainingshan District were evicted, accommoda tion being provided elsewhere for those who liked to avail themselves of it, and, after resumption of the property by the Government, the area was entirely cleared of buildings and laid out afresh in building lots with streets and lanes suitably arranged. Owing to the irregularity and steepness of the ground, the operations involved were of a very extensive and costly nature. Numerous high retaining walls had to be built, stree! . lanes formed, and sewers and storm-water drains constructed to suit the re-arrangement of the building lots. The various works were not completed until 1899 and the expenditure on them, after deducting various credits for materials sold or deposited as filling in the Praya Reclamation, amounted to $103,128.60. The cost of resuming the property, including all charges, was $821.268,32, making the total cost of the scheme $924,396.92. The amount realized by the sale of building lots up to the present time amounts to $171,399 50.

A considerable proportion of the land rendered available for building purposes was utilized for the creation of public gardens or devoted to other public purposes, this reducing the area intended for sale and largely augmenting the financial loss on the scheme. Full particulars of the scheme are given in the annexed table. Lower Lascar Row Resumption .- No further resumptions on stritary grounds were undertaken until 1992, when Messrs. Chadwick and Simpson visited the Colony to report on its condition from a sanitary point of view and advise the Government with regard to the adoption of measures for its improvement. During their visit a fire occurred which practically destroyed a number of houses near the junction of Lower Lascar Row and Ladder Street. It was considered that an opportunity was thus afforded of improving the neigh bourhood, which was a congested one, and Mosses, Chadwick and Simpson formulated a small scheme, which they submitted to Government. This scheme was only partially carried out, a portion of it, which involved the payment of heavy compensation without any commensurate people that this year's Al Fresco Fête takes place benefit to neighbouring properties, being abandoned. The expenditure on the portion carried out was $33,097.79, the entire area resumed being devoted to the formation of a street about 32 feet wide between the houses fronting on Queen's Road and those fronting on Circular Pathway.

Details of the areas resumed and expenditure involved are given in the annexed tables. Kau-U-Fong Resumpt ion .- The task of formulating and carrying out improvement schemes in a systematic manner was first undertaken in 1903, when a start was made with a deusely-built block lying west of Aberdeen Street and between Wellington and Gough Streets and known as Ka u. U. Fong, South and West, and eight in On Wo Lane were resumed in addition to two in Aberdeen Street and three in Gough Street, and all of these were entirely demolished." A new street 30 feet in width, has been constructed and it is proposed to dispose of the surplus land for building purposes. The scheme is not quite completed so a complete and accurate statement of the cost cannot there- Dr. Arez and Lieut. Santos. H.E. the fore be given. The figures available are, how ever, given in the annexed tables. W. CHATHAM.

The Chinese Empress has issued a decree acknowledging receipt of a memorial from Chen K'wei-lung, Governor of Houan, reporting the peaceful condition this year of that portion of the Yellow River which passes through Honan province due to the energy and watchfulness of the officials connected with the River Conservation Bureau of that province. In gratitude to the river gods for this the said Governor is commanded to take charge of the ten large Tibeten sticks of incense, ordered to be sent from Peking for the purpose, and reverentially offer them in sacrifice at the altar of the Temple of the River God, as a mark of the Imperial gratitude and approbation!

SOCIETY OF ST. VINCENT DE PAUL.

The following is the report of the Society of Vincent de Paul, Hongkong, for the year ending 30th June, 1905 :-

The committee have pleasure in presenting their report for the year under review.

Before proceeding into the details they wish to express their warm appreciation for the interest which His Excellency Sir Matthew Nathan, K.C.M.G., the Governor of the Colony, has shown to the Society. His Excellency not only contributed liberally to the Ai Fresco Fete but has become an annual subscriber to the funds of the society.

The Committee wish also to record their best thanks to the public of Hongkong for the generous support of the society's Al Fresco Fete held on the 6th November, 1904, specially the ladies and gentlemen who attended the various stalls and the denors of prizes and refreshments, the press for the articles written, the members of the orchestra who played during the evening and the officers of the 110th Mahratta Infantry for the use of their band. They hope to meet a continuance of same in this and in future

The Al Fresco Fete was a great success and the net proceeds amounted to $2,351.23. As this fete contributes the main yearly revenue of the society the committee were thus enabled through its good result to render assistance to the poor and destitute as follows: -$997 for weekly allowance of provisions to 37 families. This allowance is made by means of tickets distributed to the poor every Sunday morning! by the visiting members immediately after the weekly meeting of the society. The visiting members call at the premises of the poor to ascertain their wants. $588 for cash allowance made up as follows: monthly allowance to 20 families $449; special allowance at Christmas $113; extra allowance for the sick $26, $120. to the Wanchai Hospital for medical attendance, medicines and funeral expenses on bahalf of the destitutes. $60.80 for shoes for the poor children to enable them to attend school. $47.10 for saudry contribution, a funeral $7.50, medicine $5.20, passage money $20 and clothes to three orphan boys on the occasion of their first communion.

Besides the above expenditure the committee have also been able to contribute $350 to the orphanage under the care of the Christian Brothers, $300. to the house for the aged and infirm, Wanchai, under the Italian Sisters of Charity and $60 to the Wanchai Convent.

The balance brought forward from last year's accounts was $1,579.48, and the total expenditure $2,522.90, leaving a balance at the credit of the society of $1789.72.

The average contribution for the relief of the poor per month is $135.

On appealing to the government for an annual donation out of the public funds the Society received $100.

Since the last report the admission into membership was as follows:-three honorary. three notive; making the total number of the former 32 and the latter 93.

The committee feel glad to record that the attendance of the members at the weekly meetings has been increasing and the visits to the poor have been regular. It is hoped that the visits will go on improving, as admonished by the promoter of the society.

From the report of the visiting members the health of the poor has been fairly good with the exception of three who are invalids

In conclusion the committee beg to thank the members for the valuable co-operation in the past year, and as the working power of the society is entirely dependant on the income of the Annual Bazaer they trust that all the members, both the active and the honorary, will. use all their endeavours to make the coming Bazaar as successful as possible, thus helping the committee to lessen the sufferings of those whose hardships are many and pleasures few.

We would remind all the charitably disposed on Sunday next from 9 to 11 p.m. in the compound of the Roman Catholic Cathodral as announced in our advertising columns. The various stalls will be opened for the inspection of the public during the afternoon on Sunday. The society fully deserves the pecuniary assistance of the public.

A FATAL ERBOR. A picatical craft, embeldened by several successful coups, the last of which had been committed on the 23rd ult. between this port - and Hamehow, on a firewood junk, came across the guard-boat No. 6, named Hong Kwekschoong on the evening of the 24th ult. Mistaking her for an ordinary trading junk, the pirates tried to board her, but the guard-boat gave them such a hot reception that the maranders turned and fled. The guard-boat in turn chased and captured the pirate boat, where sixteen pirates were found on board, out of a crew of over twenty. The remainder had escaped by jumping overboard, in which | attempt they must have been drowned, as the night was exceptionally dark. The guard-boat, with the junk in tow, arrived here on the 27th worth of stolen goods were found, including fishing nets, wearing apparel, blankets, a few hundred strings of cash, etc. These goods were offered for sale at a cheap price later on.

"TROPICAL FRENZY."

A NEW DISEASE.

The Evening Standard says :- The closing day of the German Colonial Congress was occupied with a discussion on several interesting paper read by Professor Plehn on "Tropical Frenzy," the disease from which so many German Colonial officials suffer, and which has been tendered in extenuation of various acts of brutality committed by them. Doctor Plehn did not heard of in connection with the African colonies

Tropical frenzy is usually associated, it seems, with malaria, and in its features have much in common with progressive paralysis. In | the fact that they are so afflicted should result connection with this sensational case I am in- in acquittal. Premeditated and planned crime

It will be remembered that after several German officials and colonials in German African colonies had committed acts of horrible brutality against the natives, this novel disease was urged as an "extenuation."

Further interesting discussion was raised Dr. Morensky on the Ethiopic movement Africa, alleged to be a movement in favour of freeing Africa from the presence of the white "Africa for the Africans" is their motto. The leaders of the movement are derived from the native Christian churches, and, according to Dr. Merensky, they are infused with intense race feeling, their influence is immense, and their agitation one which may in a short time set South Africa in the threes of a great racial

Finally, the congress discussed German colonisation of Asia Minor. It will be recollected that at the time the Bagdad Railway scheme bulked largely before the public there was subsidiary plan for sending properly equipped German colonies to Asia Minor and Mesopotamia who would make a garden of the desert and enormously contribute to strengthening the political influence of Germany within the Turkish Empire. According to the distinguished Eastern traveller, Dr. Zimmerer, this plan will not hold water, as neither the political, economical, nor climatic conditions of Asia Minor and Syria are suitable for this sort of enterprise by Germans. The disturbances in German East Africa are spreading. Little official information permitted to leak out, but the special correspondent of the Lokatanzeiger telegraphs that the station Kisidja was burnt Thursday by rabels. The Hindoos escaped to the adjacent island of Kwale, also the Akida of the district. Two Askaris were killed, and one wounded. Captain von Kleist, who is marching to Kisidja from Mohoro, has announced that the Akidas of the two neighbouring stations feel their position threatened by the insurgents. The missionaries who remained bohind in Mpangire drove back the attack of about 2.000 rebels, afterwards escaping without loss to Lupembe.

Comby found everywhere on the part of the regrettable that the amount of deposits is very Chinese an enthusiasm for progress far in small in comparison with America, as will be excess of the practical means of carrying out seen from the figures given below :the plans desired. Officials and gentry alike have reached the point of believing railways to be inovitable and necessary. Schemes are on foot for building them in all directions; but the the money, and the control is to be entirely Chinese. Very much of this objection to foreign assistance M. Comby traces directly to the Japanese, whom be discovered advising and influencing the Chinese all along the line of his travels. The result of the war has immensely stimulated an intercourse already very great between the two nations, whose bonds of a common written character, of similarly Asiatic modes of thought, of religious and philosophical sentiment, are exceedingly strong. M. Comby noted what appeared to him a dangerous result of this intercourse. The comparative neurness of Japan, and the extraordinary craving of the Chinese for knowledge which, they hope, will onable them to follow Japan's example, and resume_their place among the Powers, has caused an immense number of students to go over to the island empire. Unfortunately the course taken, including three or four months spont in travel, has usually been of only year's duration. The young scholars have returned to their native provinces with something less than a smuttering of knowledge, but on the strength of what they are supposed to have learned they are placed in all sorts of impossible positions. And they have, curiously enough, come back with strong anti-foreign tendeccies. To their crude ideas Japan succeeded by getting rid of foreign interference, and they fancy that China has only to dismiss her foreign advisers and she also will succeed. It is to be regretted that this mistaking of the end for the means is being furthered by the circulation of mischievous pamphlets, of two of which M. Comby secured copies and brought them back for translation. They set forth the very plausible argument that railway concessions have been used for securing a footing and have been backed up first by railway guards, then by troops, and eventually by annexation of territories. So antagonistic the Viceroy of Szechuan, excellent and intelligent official as he is in many respects, that he has throutened to deprive of his button any mandarin who ventures to submit a petition

A CURE FOR CONSUMPTION.

Professor Behring made an aunouncement to the Congress on tuberculosis as to his new cure for consumption, which may mean an indefinite extension of life to tens of thousands of patients at this moment, to all human knowledge, under sentence of death. Of its naturo we know nothing definite. According to the Figure, the Professor believes the microbe of disease to take the path of the digestive rather than the respiratory channels, and to attach the mucous membrane of the back of the throat while there is a rumour that his cure consists in drinking the milk of cows or other animals previously rendered immune. But we would appeal to sufferers and the public in general to (suspend their judgment. Even when the discovery has been published it has still to receive the sanction of the scientific world, and, furthermore, to stand the test of actual experience. It has apparently never yet been tried on human beings. There is a dangerous tendency to go too fast in accepting sensational "cares.". bacteriology international rivalry is as keen as in any other field. A discovery by the pathologist of one nation sets up a friendly rivalry which has the effect of unduly hurrying forward immature investigations elsewhere. Numbers of invalids now in their graves hailed with delight as a reprieve from a lingering death the serum oultivated by Dr. Koch, which, as a remedy, has proved to be of no value at all; and rash experiments with it undoubtedly hastened the end of many con sumptives. Greater confidence may be placed in a pathologist of Professor Behring's reputation. Should his cure be a genuine one, we hope he will be rewarded as liberally as is prophesied by the Echo de Paris, according to which he will practically be allowed to name his own price. His private means have been greatly impoverished by his researches, and he naturally feels disinclined to give away all the work of years for others to begin where he leaves off.

JAPANESE PRINCELY HUMILITY.

In an article on the Naval Review off Yokohama, the Japan Daily Mail says :-The Crown Prince took part in the Review us a naval captain and acted as a member of Admiral Togo's staff. It was observed that, at the time of returning to the ships from the railway station where Admiral Togo and a number of officers bad assembled to receive the Emperor, His Imperial Highness refused to enter a carriage, though pressed by Admiral Togo to do so. He declared himself to be present merely as a captain in the nayy who served under Admiral Togo's orders, and he persisted in his resolve to mount a junicsha after Admiral Togo had seated himself in a similar humble vehicle. On the occasion of the Emperor's return after the Review, the Prince still retained his character of captain, and again rode in a jinricsha. Of course this was not the first time that His Imperial Highness had ridden in a jinricsha. He had often done so when making trips in the country. ACTA v. VERBA.

The Japan Daily Mail states that the reception of the Japanese Admirals in Uyeno Park, Tokyo, on 24th Oct. the Mayor addressed Admiral Togo in the following brave words, chosen from the aucient vocabulary of the Empire. As a contemporary observes, they read like an extract from Love's Labours

"When our country engaged in a struggle with its neighbour, Heaven was with us and the heart of the nation was in the contest. Nevertheless the enemy having on his side the reputation of great achievements, being in possession of powerful strengholds and having a vast host to rely ou, we could not but entertain disquietude. You, however, led the combat, soized the opportunity, overwhelmed his powerfy' ships, blockaded his leviathan war-vessels, drove him into a death-trap and, striking him there with lightning rapidity, broke his courage, impaired his spirit, dislocated his plans, decided the issue of the combat, inspired our nation with confidence, and achieved its hope. The enemy, now recognising his mistake, changed his commanding officer for a man who inspired his following with new courage so that they fought stoutly. Hereupon you, quietly maturing your strategy, issued sinks into insignificance compared with the forth in face of the storm and the snow, and 3,000 per cent, of the American banks. In unerringly utilising opportunities as they arose, the larger cities Kobe heads the list with 490 by a combination of prudence, thoroughness, per cont., Kyoto comes second with 400 per and daring, finally destroyed the enemy's Far cent., and so on. So long as a bank solely rolies | Eastern Fleet and compelled him to rely on his upon its capital in the conduct of business, its | land forces only. Thereupon, employing the scope will be necessarily limited, and for this whole of his national resources, he assembled reason it must aim at absorbing as large an every available ship and sent out a great fleet amount of deposits as possible by enhancing to an immense distance once more to engage its credit. The banking business in Japan is you. But you, with undaunted courage and in still in a state of infancy, and scarcely bears spite of the weariness of a hundred fights, comparison with that of America. It is recognising as the world did that the fate of therefore the duty of the Japanese bankers, the | the Empire was at stake, formed your own commercial organ concludes, to try and estimate in the face of the enemy's bewildering convince the people of the usefulness of the movements and perplexing manœuvres, and then banks and further increase the amount of rushing upon him with the force of a whale teaving deposits, so that if Mr. Bryan comes to Japan its way through a herring net, struck at him again some years hence he will be convinced of in the morning, crushed him in the evening, the erroneous nature of the praise he has given | overthrew the mountain, lowered the lefty peak, to the position of Japanese banking. - Japan destroyed even the lustre on the country's flag. showed the power of its ships, restored profound peace of mind to the nation, and spread its prestige throughout the whole world. Such have been your noble achievements, grand and unprecedented. You have shown yourself the Empire's great instrument; you won splendid renown at home and abroad. We, observing, cannot measure our gratitude. We welcome your triumphantreturn, We thank you for your untiring exertions. Our ex ressions of applause may be weak but our spirit of approval is strong. We pray you to appreciate our sentiment." The National Anthem was then played, and Admiral Togo, rising, said :--"I thank you for your earnest welcome. On behalf of the United Fleet I offer our PRESENT expression of gratitude.'

SHANGHAI'S POPULATION.

A census taken at Shanghai on October 14 shows the foreign population to be made up as follows. The increase in Japanese is remarkable. In 1900 there were only 736, and in 1895, 250. British in 1900 numbered 2,691. The figures given do not include the French settlement. British 3,713 American Austro-Hungarian

1639, the then ruler of Japan expelled the Portuguese and prescribed Christianity, the province of Hizen alone furnished 30,000 native Christians, who resisted the prescription, and were most terribly punished. Japanese methods were not hampered by squeamishness. So far as can now be known, the first Englishman to set foot in Japan was William Adams, of Kent, the mate of a Dutch merchantman. He reached Yedo about 1605-10, and lived there for several years. It is to be regretted on all accounts that this worthy mariner was no writer, for he has not left so much as a note-book to tell what he saw and how it struck him. He had unequalled advantages for making himself acquainted with the conditions of life in this strange land, for with the adaptability which makes diplomats and colonisers of Englishmen, he established himself in high favour at court, and even secured an appointment of considerable honour as instructor in shipbuilding. Finally, he was granted the title of Hatamoto -no small honour, in any case, and particularly for a foreigner. If only he had been able to write as well as he could lay a course! I can imagine nothing more picturesque, nothing more compact of the materials of stirring romance, than the position of this stolid deft-handed sailor, carrying the old civilisation of the West to the older wisdom of the East. Did he win favour by cheery good-fellowship, by hearty willingness to do what was expected of him? Had he a good-humoured contompt (that English contempt!) for the yellow folk about him? What did he think of their ships, of their sailors, and their shipwrights? The fact that he left no answer to any of these questions is a stain on the honoured name of William Adams. England is poor in her lack of an equivalent for the worshipful Marco Polo. From the time of William Adams Japan came Japan of late has been prominent as a party at a canter towards what is called civilisation, thriving; it is interesting, if not otherwise have paddled their canoes all the way from profitable, to examine what Japan was about at | Papua or New Guines, to be murdered out of hand as soon as they landed. For the poor the outlook is infernal indeed. What, then, can be done on behalf of the poor with regard to their futeful

The answer to this question throws vivid light on the curious and universal use of paper money for the dead, and of all sorts of articles manufactured in gold and silver tinsel, which are used in funeral ceremonies. Great officials leave elaborate directions and large sums of money for the erection of their temples after their death. In these their tablets are placed. and offerings of incense and paper money are burned.
